

DEBUNKING HOSPICE MYTHS

MONDAY, MARCH 23
10:30AM

It's a tough conversation but a very important one: end of life care. For some people when they hear the word hospice they think it means you've given up on life, but the truth is that hospice is designed to help ensure patient's live their final days to the fullest while also supporting families. We're going to break it all down.
