

UNDERSTANDING ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

Friday, December 20th

10:00AM

Alzheimer's disease is a hereditary disease that targets the brain and affects memory, thinking and behavior. Next year, health officials estimate 27,000 Rhode Islanders will be diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease.

Join us for a special presentation from the Alzheimer's Association of Rhode Island and Deb Burton of Rhode Island Elder Info to learn more about the signs and symptoms plus community resources to help you or a loved one living with memory loss.
