PREFACE

The City of East Providence re-affirms its commitment to the principles of affirmative action, non-discrimination and equal employment opportunity. It is the City's firm belief that any employment decision, policy or program, regardless of intent, which through its design, implementation or impact limits the full utilization of qualified individuals. It is the policy of the City not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment in the terms, conditions, and benefits of employment because of race, color, age (40 years or older), religion, expression, national origin, sex (pregnancy), sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, veteran status, disability or any basis protected by State and Federal Law. The City's personnel policies and practices are designed to provide equal opportunity for all persons. All employment decisions and actions will be made without preference based on the aforementioned characteristics.

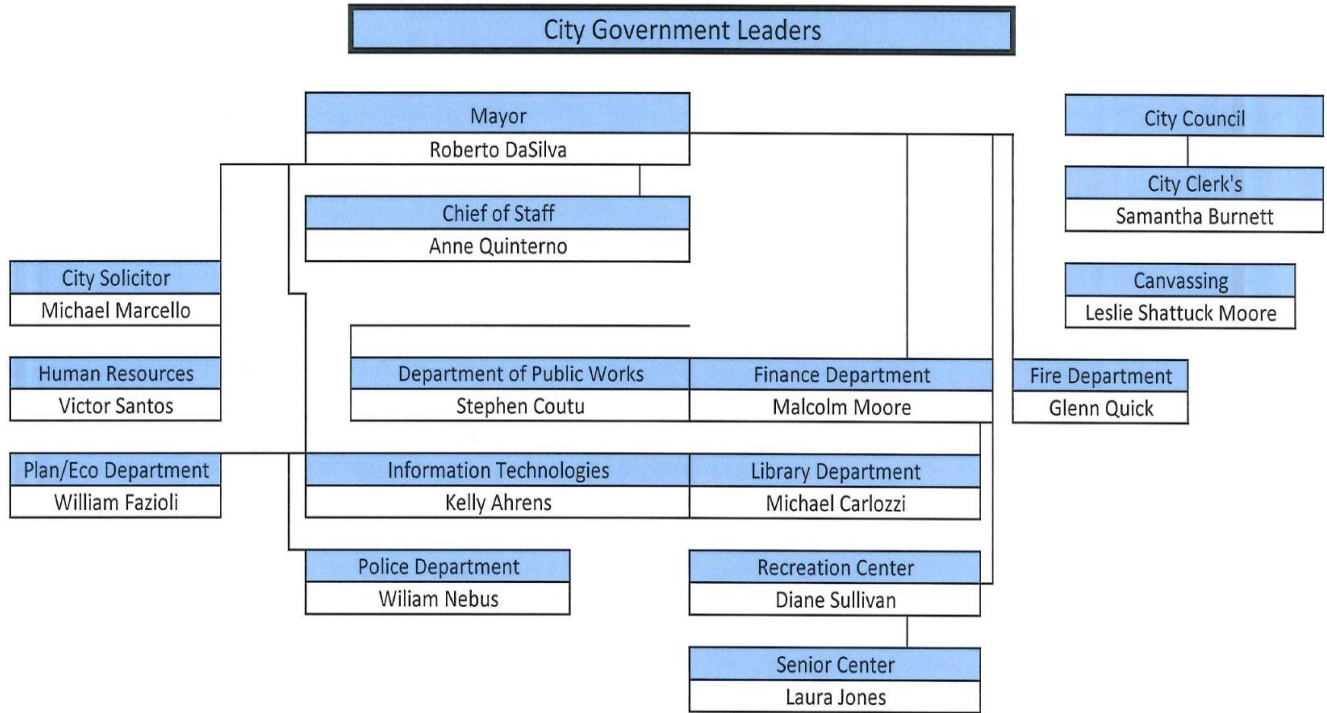

A policy of non-discrimination by itself, however, is not sufficient enough to erase the effects of past employment practices. In addition to vigilance over activities aimed at elimination of discriminatory barriers to employment, the City of East Providence undertakes positive measures (affirmative action) to ensure equal employment opportunity to members of the protected classes, minorities, women, people with disabilities and veterans. The goal is to achieve the equitable participation of minorities, women, people with disabilities and veterans in all City Departments and on all job levels.

Each City Department has the responsibility to undertake affirmative action and promote the full realization of such through outreach and recruitment of underutilized protected classes. The City needs and should take affirmative steps to train and promote employees to improve their opportunities to participate in higher level employment opportunities with the emphasis in job classifications where members of protected classes are under-utilized and under-represented.

We celebrate the diversity of our great City and remain dedicated to affirmative actions, policies, procedures and attitudes necessary to continue to build and retain a workforce that is reflective of the community that we are here to serve.

II. ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

City of East Providence Municipal Department Organizational Chart

III. LEGAL FRAMEWORK

The legal basis for equal employment opportunity, affirmative action, and other efforts to protect individuals from discriminatory practices may be found in the following federal, state, and local laws:

Federal Laws

14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution: Adopted in 1868, this amendment prohibits state and local government officials from depriving persons of life, liberty, or property without legislative authorization. It also requires each state to provide equal protection under the law to all people with its jurisdiction.

Equal Pay Act of 1963: The Equal Pay Act requires that men and women in the same workplace be given equal pay for equal work. The jobs need not be identical, but they must be substantially equal. Job content determines whether jobs are substantially equal. All forms of pay are covered by this law, including salary, overtime pay, bonuses, stock options, profit sharing and bonus plans, life insurance, vacation and holiday pay, cleaning or gasoline allowances, hotel accommodations, reimbursement for travel expenses and benefits. If there is an inequality in wages between men and women, employers may not reduce the wages of either sex to equalize their pay.

Civil Rights Act of 1964 Title VI, 42 U.S.C. Sec 2000d, et seq.: Title VI prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin in programs and activities receiving federal financial assistance. It was amended by the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1987 to include all the operations of educational institutions, government entities, or private employers that receive federal funds.

Under Title VI, recipients of federal financial assistance have the responsibility to ensure meaningful access to their programs and activities by persons with limited English proficiency.

Civil Rights Act of 1964 Title VII, 42 U.S.C. Secs. 2000 d-4, et seq.: Title VII outlawed unequal application of voter registration requirements, and racial segregation in schools, in housing, in the workplace and in facilities that serve the general public. This act provides that it shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer with 15 or more employees to fail or refuse to hire or to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with respect to compensation, and terms, conditions or privileges of employment because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Executive Order 11246 signed 1965: The Executive Order 11246 prohibits federal contractors and subcontractors and federally-assisted construction contractors and subcontractors that generally have contracts that exceed $10,000 from discriminating in employment decisions on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. It also requires covered contractors to take affirmative action to ensure equal opportunity is provided in all aspects of their employment.

Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967: The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA) protects individuals who are 40 years of age or older from employment discrimination based on age. The ADEA's protection applies to both employees and job applicants. Under the ADEA, it is unlawful to discriminate against a person because of his/her age with respect to any term, condition, or privilege of employment, including hiring, firing, promotion, layoff, compensation, benefits, job assignments, and training. The ADEA permits employers to favor older workers based on age even when doing so adversely affects a younger worker who is 40 or older.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972: Title IX prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in any federally funded education program or activity. The law states, in part, that: “No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance...”

Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973: Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 prohibits discrimination against persons with disabilities. It requires employers with federal contracts or subcontracts that exceed $10,000 to take affirmative action in the hiring, retention, and promotion of qualified individuals with disabilities. All covered contractors and subcontractors must also include a specific equal opportunity clause in each of their nonexempt contracts and subcontracts.

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973: Section 504 prohibit employers who receive federal grants or funding from discriminating against employees solely by reason of their disability.

Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974: The Vietnam Era Veterans ‘Readjustment Assistance Act (VEVRRA) requires covered federal government contractors and subcontractors to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment specified categories of veterans protected by the Act and prohibits discrimination against such veterans. In addition, VEVRRA requires contractors and subcontractors to list their employment openings with the appropriate employment service delivery system, and that covered veterans receive priority in referral to such openings. Further, VEVRRA requires federal contractors and subcontractors to compile and submit annually a report on the number of current employees who are covered veterans. The affirmative action and mandatory job listing provisions of VEVRRA are enforced by the Employment Standards administrations of the Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFFCCP) within the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). DOL’s Veterans Employment and Training Service (VETS) administers’ employment reporting requirement.

Pregnancy Discrimination Act of 1978: The Pregnancy Discrimination Act amended Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Discrimination on basis of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions constitutes unlawful sex discrimination under Title VII, which covers employers with 15 or more employees, including state and local governments. Title VII also applies to employment agencies and to labor organizations, as well as to the federal government. Women who are pregnant or affected by pregnancy-related conditions must be treated in the same manner as other applicants or employees with similar abilities or limitations.

Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990: Title I of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 prohibits private employers, state and local governments, employment agencies and labor unions from discriminating against qualified individuals with disabilities in job application procedures, hiring, firing, advancement, compensation, job training and other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment. The ADA covers employers with 15 or more employees, including state and local governments. It also applies to employment agencies and to labor organizations. The ADA’s nondiscrimination standards also apply to federal sector employees under section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act, as amended, and its implementing rules.

Civil Rights Act of 1991: An act which, among other things, provided for the right to trial by jury on discrimination claims and introduced the possibility of emotional distress damages, while limiting the amount that a jury could award.

Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993: The Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) of 1993 requires employers with 50 or more workers to provide eligible employees up to 12 weeks of unpaid, job protected leave in a 12 month period to care for a newborn, or newly placed adopted or foster child; to care for a seriously ill child, spouse, parent, or because of the employee's own illness.

Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008: The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA), which prohibits employment discrimination based on differences in DNA/genetic information that may affect an employee's health. The law prevents discrimination from health insurers and employers.

ADA Amendments Act of 2008: On September 25, 2008, the President signed the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act of 2008 ("ADA Amendments Act" or "Act"). The Act makes important changes to the definition of the term "disability" by rejecting the holdings in several Supreme Court decisions and portions of EEOC's ADA regulations. The Act retains the ADA's basic definition of "disability" as an impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities, a record of such an impairment, or being regarded as having such an impairment.

Any employee who believes he or she is a victim of sexual harassment must immediately report any incident to their supervisor, Personnel Director, and/or the Affirmative Action Officer.

The City of East Providence will not tolerate retaliation against any employee who complains of sexual harassment or provides information in connection with any such complaint.

If the City receives an allegation of sexual harassment or believes sexual harassment is occurring, it must take the necessary steps to promptly, impartially investigate and address the matter. If it is determined that the allegation is credible, the City must take immediate and effective action to end the unwelcome behavior. The City must take action if it learns of possible sexual harassment, even if the victim of such action does not wish to file a formal complaint.

It is the responsibility of all officials, managers, supervisors, and other responsible City officials who may observe, be informed of, or suspect that an incident of possible sexual harassment immediately report such incidents to the Personnel Director and the Affirmative Action Officer, simultaneously, so that the incident may be promptly investigated. Officials, managers, supervisors, and other responsible City officials must take effective measures to ensure that no further alleged harassment occurs while the investigation is underway and until such time that the investigation is complete.

To the extent possible, the City shall seek to protect the identities of the alleged victim and harasser, except as reasonably necessary (for example, to complete an investigation successfully). Any employee, who has been found to have subjected another employee to unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature, will be subject to discipline appropriate to the circumstances, ranging from a letter of reprimand to termination for cause.

Any unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and other verbal and physical conduct of a sexual nature is unlawful sexual harassment when the response or reaction to the advances or requests is permitted to affect the employment decisions. It is also illegal for an employer to permit any conduct that is sexually offensive, intimidating, hostile or interferes with an individual's work performance. Sexual advances by co-workers who have no control over a person's employment may be unlawful if it has such an intimidating effect that job status is affected.

This policy shall be communicated to all Officials, Managers, Supervisors, other responsible City officials, and employees, annually, and all are expected to behave in a professional manner and comply with this policy. A copy of this policy shall be posted in the personnel office.

Policy on Discrimination Because of Religion or National Origin

It is the policy of the City of East Providence to take affirmative action to insure that applicants are employed, without regard to their religion or national origin. Such action includes, but is not limited to the following employment practices: hiring, promotion, demotion, transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertising, layoff, termination, rates of pay or other forms of compensation and selection for training.

The following practices will be reviewed to determine whether members of the various religions and/or ethnic groups are receiving fair consideration for job opportunities.

- (a) Internal recruitment and selection procedures to ensure that the City of East Providence's obligation to provide equal employment opportunity without regard to religion or national origin is being fully implemented.
- (b) Recruiting sources will include our commitment to provide equal employment opportunity without regard to religion or national origin.
- (c) Promotional opportunities will be afforded to all employees regardless of religion or national origin.
- (d) Contact with religious and ethnic organizations will be made for purposes of advice, education, technical assistance and referral of potential employees as necessary to accomplish the purpose of our affirmative action program.
- (e) Recruitment activities will include engagement with educational institutions with substantial enrollments of students from various ethnic and religious groups.
- (f) Ethnic and religious media may be used for employment advertising.

Reasonable accommodations to the religious observances and practices of employees or prospective employees will be made, unless doing so would result in undue hardship. In determining whether undue hardship exists, factors such as the cost and the impact on the rights of other employees, will be considered.

This policy shall be communicated to all Officials, Managers, Supervisors, other responsible City officials, and employees, annually, and all are expected to behave in a professional manner and comply with this policy. A copy of this policy shall be posted in the personnel office.

Policy on Reasonable Accommodation for Persons with Disabilities

The City of East Providence is committed to making reasonable accommodation to employees or applicants that have known physical or mental limitations of qualified persons with disabilities and qualified disabled veterans, unless such accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the conduct of its business. The City is also committed to engaging in an interactive process with the person requesting the accommodation (or their representative), as needed, to determine an appropriate accommodation. The City of East Providence provides reasonable accommodations:

- When an applicant with a disability needs an accommodation to have an equal opportunity to compete for a job.
- When an employee with a disability needs an accommodation to perform the essential functions of the job or to gain access to the workplace
- When an employee with a disability needs an accommodation to enjoy equal access to benefits and privileges of employment (e.g. trainings, office sponsored events)

Undue hardship will be determined by assessing whether the requested accommodation would cause significant difficulty or expense, as provided for in the Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

A reasonable accommodation is any change in the workplace or the way things are customarily done that provides an equal employment opportunity to an individual with a disability. While there are some things that are not considered reasonable accommodations (e.g. removal of an essential job function or personal use items such as hearing aid that is needed on and off the job), reasonable accommodations can cover most things that enable an individual to apply for a job, perform a job), or have equal access to the workplace and employee benefits such as kitchens, parking lots, and office space events.

Common types of accommodations include:

- Modifying work schedules or supervisory methods
- Granting breaks or providing leave
- Altering how or when job duties are performed
- Removing and/or substituting a marginal function
- Moving to different office space
- Providing telework beyond that provided by the collective bargaining agreement
- Making changes in workplace policies
- Providing assistive technology, including technology and communication equipment or specially designed furniture.
- Providing a reader or other staff assistant to enable employees to perform their job functions, where the accommodation cannot be provided by current staff
- Removing an architectural barrier, including reconfiguring work places.
- Providing accessible parking
- Providing materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille, large print.)
- Providing a reassignment to another job.

This policy shall be communicated to Department Heads, Division Heads and all Supervisors and Employees annually, and a notice shall be posted in the personnel office.

Guidelines for Ensuring Unbiased Work Environments

Rhode Island General Law 28-5.1 and the Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, mandates employers to maintain a working environment free of discriminatory insults, intimidation and other forms of harassment. Both an employee's psychological and economic well-being are protected. While an employer cannot be held accountable for the prejudices of it's of its workers clientele, it must take reasonable measures to control or eliminate the overt expression of those prejudices in the workplace. Prompt action by an employer to prevent or correct discriminatory harassment can go a long way in lessening employer liability.

Perhaps the most common type of harassment to which workers are subjected is verbal abuse. Racial and ethnic epithets, slurs or jokes directed at or made in the presence of minority groups employees, are not to be tolerated. An example of unlawful race and sex bias at work environment is the use if the diminutive term "boys" when referring to minority male employees and "girls" when referring to female employees.

An employer is under a two –pronged duty to maintain a working atmosphere free of national origin bias. First, the employer itself must refrain from ridicule or harassment on the basis of slurs or jokes based on national origin are unlawful. An employer is also under the obligation to maintain a work environment free of religious bias. Permitting a supervisor to espouse his/her beliefs to employees while at work may amount to religious discrimination.

This policy shall be communicated to all Officials, Managers, Supervisors, other responsible City Officials, and employees, annually, and all are expected to behave in a professional manner and comply with this policy. A copy of this policy shall be posted in the personnel office.

VI. INTERNAL ANALYSIS OF PROBLEM AREAS AND PLAN ADMINISTRATION

The City of East Providence is committed to the effective implementation of the Affirmative Action Plan. It recognizes, however, that it is the responsibility of the leadership, as well as each department manager and supervisor to commit to the Plan's success.

Therefore, the following actions shall be taken to foster commitment and ensure accountability to the Plan's goals:

Internal and External Dissemination of Plan and Policies

- Within thirty days of the Affirmative Action Plan issuance, a copy of the plan will be distributed to all department directors, managers, and supervisors, and the Mayor shall issue a memorandum to each stating the importance of their support and compliance with the plan's content.
- All new employees will be provided with a copy of the policies contained within the plan at their time of hire.
- A copy of the plan shall be made available to any employee or applicant upon request.
- The Affirmative Action Officer and the Personnel Director will collaborate to ensure that a copy of the plan is posted on the City's web page, and a written announcement is placed in the employee newsletter.
- Training programs for department heads, managers and supervisors will be conducted with a focus on explaining the intent of the plan, goals, timetables, and responsibilities necessary for implementation. The training programs will be developed with the assistance of the Affirmative Action Committee.
- Upon request Union Officials shall be provided a copy of the plan and non-discrimination clauses shall be included in all union agreements and contracts. Union contract provisions shall be reviewed to ensure they are non-discriminatory.

The city will make every effort to ensure that all employment practices and decisions are made fairly and equitably. Such employment practices shall include, but not be limited to, employee recruitment, hiring, transfer, promotion, training, compensation, benefits, layoff, and termination.

Throughout the Municipal Department, minorities are underutilized in all job categories, except Skilled Craft. Women are not adequately represented in the Officials/ Managers/ Administrators, Professionals, Technicians, Protective Services, and Service Maintenance job categories. Within the City Administration, minorities are underutilized in all job categories and women are only underrepresented in the Service Maintenance job category. A job freeze, minimal turnover, and restrictions imposed by collective bargaining agreements are some of the primary reasons for the underutilization of minorities and women in the respective categories.

In an effort to improve the overall representation of minorities and women within job categories where they are not adequately represented, the affirmative action officer, in conjunction with the personnel director, shall oversee all employment practices to ensure they are conducted in accordance with the provisions of City Ordinance. This shall include:

- Reviewing and revising employment practices, personnel rules, policies and procedures, as needed, to ensure that they comply with federal and state laws, and that they are rendered fairly, appropriately, and without discrimination.
- Developing and implementing best practices for recruitment that broadens outreach and increases the likelihood of attracting a more diverse applicant pool of individuals who meet the minimum requirements for job openings, especially for those job classifications and categories where there exists an underutilization of women and minorities.
- This shall include, but not be limited to, direct contact with civic organizations specifically involved with equal opportunity in employment or minorities (people of color), women, persons of disabilities and veterans; the development of an expanded outreach list which identifies minority organizations, churches, businesses, branches of the military and leaders who will be notified of job openings to assist with disseminating information about such jobs to the underrepresented communities; advertising job announcements in minority publication and through other minority media outlets; expanding the application period to allow the necessary time to reach a broader applicant pool; review of existing recruitment practices to ensure there are no unnecessary barriers to recruiting a diverse applicant pool; and hosting community informational workshops geared toward educating the general public on various employment opportunities.
- Developing best practices for selection that ensures fair and equitable treatment of all individuals, and that seeks to identify and eliminate any potential bias that may exist throughout the decision making processes. This shall include a review of each component of the selection process by the Affirmative Action Officer, who will make recommendations to the Human Resources Director of specific actions that may result in greater diversity in the selection process. For example, understanding the importance of diverse perspectives, the Affirmative Action Officer be present or recommend that minorities be included on specific selection panels for positions where there exists an underrepresentation of minorities and woman in the workforce particularly in Public Safety.

Recruitment

It is the City of East Providence's goal to have a diverse and qualified workforce. To achieve this goal, the City of East Providence will always seek the best, qualified candidates for openings, based on job required knowledge, skills abilities, job related education and/or training, relevant experience and who will contribute to the diversity goals of the City. The City of East Providence will undertake extraordinary efforts to recruit from protected classes who historically have been underrepresented and excluded from the workforce.

Applicant Flow

Developing and implementing a process for collecting and analyzing employment data, including applicant demographic data for each position filled. The data from the analysis shall be used to identify areas of underutilization of women and minorities throughout the city's workforce and to determine whether the selection process adversely impacted women or minorities. The data shall also be used for the purpose of setting hiring goals for each job classification and category where underutilization exists.

Training Programs

The Affirmative Action Officer, in fulfillment of affirmative action objectives will ensure that all protected group members who are already employed in the City are aware of opportunities and programs for training and career development. The City's Personnel Department will make all departments aware of training opportunities that will benefit employees. Department Heads will notify staff of opportunities for training and career development. In support of Affirmative Action objectives, special effort will be made to encourage protected group members to apply for trainings.

Workforce Attitude

Every effort shall be made to maintain a workplace environment that encourages respectful and professional relations between employees and their interactions with customers, clients, contractors, consultants and others while conducting the City's business and/or engaged in City sponsored events and activities. Training shall be afforded to current and future employees on such topics as the prevention of harassment, discrimination, and retaliation, as well as the fostering of respect and quality customer service in the workplace. Where necessary, training will be specifically developed to address other employment related topics that promote positive workforce attitudes and interactions.

An environment where all employees feel included and valued results in a stronger and motivated workforce. Without a doubt of diversity of the City of East Providence is a key attraction to candidates for employment. A commitment to recruiting, hiring, developing and promoting a diverse workforce that mirrors the people who live and do business in the City of East Providence is extremely vital to our success.
