East Providence opens cooling centers

Note to editors: Attached is a graphic with all the cooling centers locations and hours of operation

EAST PROVIDENCE, RI – The City of East Providence is continuing to monitor forecasts indicating extreme heat throughout the rest of the week of June 30, 2026.

Considering this, the city has opened three cooling centers throughout East Providence and will have those open to the public through Friday, July 3rd.

Those locations include the East Providence Senior Center located at 610 Waterman Ave., Weaver Library located at 41 Grove Ave. and the Riverside Library located at 475 Bullocks Point Ave.

All three cooling centers will be open with varying hours at each location based upon staffing availability.

If residents need transportation to any of the cooling center locations, you are asked to please call the non-emergency police line at (401)-435-7600.
